Tuesday, 23rd February 2010

It gives us great pleasure in inviting you to our meeting 'Pandemic preparedness and critical care'. The venue for the meeting is the Cardiff City Hall, situated in the heart of the city.

The programme has been developed for our paramedical, nursing and medical colleagues, who have been involved in caring for patients with swine flu in the front line across the A&E, medical and infectious disease wards and critical care and behind the scene in the laboratories. Through this meeting we aim to review the characteristics of previous pandemics, provide an update of the present H1N1 swine flu pandemic in terms of the epidemiology, diagnosis, clinical features, prevention and management and all that is involved in planning at local and national level.

We have organised lectures and clinical workshops with the help of our speakers so as to draw upon their expertise to address the above mentioned issues.

We hope you will be able to attend what promises to be an illuminating day of presentations and discussions.
